BUYING CCI COTTON - AN EDGE

1. In consonance with the indicative quality parameters, consistency in quality is the hallmark of all exports supplies.
2. Overseas buyers or their authorized agents have a distinct opportunity of inspecting the quality of cotton at spot before approval as also before shipment of cotton bales.
3. Major share of total raw cotton purchases, now processed in modern / semi modern G&P factories which has significantly brought down the contamination level.
4. All cotton bales are packed with high quality grey cotton cloth costing around Rs.24/- per meter with special 50" length to ensure full coverage of cotton bales including top and bottom. High quality grey cloth used for packing is distinctively better than the cloth material generally used by trade.
5. Due to its All-India network and bulk kapas purchases, CCI could offer bulk quantities of any variety / grade of cotton. After processing of kapas, the cotton bales are stored scientifically in CWC/SWC godowns for proper up-keep and perseverance of quality with no fear of any kind of damage.
6. After approval of cotton bales, same are transported from up country to port godowns where bale by bale 100% weighment and country damage inspection is carried out by Internationally recognized controllers.
7. Having its own warehousing facilities at the port of shipment, even bulk shipments are organised within the shipment schedule only.
8. Buyers allowed delayed shipments but within a maximum period of 150 days from the date of contract, on payment of nominal carrying charges @ 1.00% p.m. for first 60 days and thereafter, @ 1.10% p.m. on monthly rest basis till date of Bill of Lading, to be provided in the Letter of Credit and on meeting other conditions as per contract.
9. As a substitute to establishing Letter of Credit, buyers have option to make advance payments in the account of CCI and avail cash discount @ 6.5% per annum as per terms of the contract. For shipments allowed beyond free period, late lifting charges @ 0.30% p.m. only.
10. Irrespective of sharp market fluctuations, CCI always performs its contractual obligations without any deviation in quality standards, price or shipment schedules.
